Special track

ALLPATT-2018: Patterns and Beyond

Chair and Coordinator: Mag. Alexander G. Mirnig, Center for Human-Computer Interaction, University of Salzburg, Austria

alexander.mirnig@sbg.ac.at along with

PATTERNS 2018, The Tenth International Conference on Pervasive Patterns and Applications

<http://www.iaria.org/conferences2018/PATTERNS18.html>

The goal of ALLPATT is to further explore the potential of Patterns and extend their reach as a method beyond their „home“ domains. Since, at their core, they are a method to collect and transfer knowledge, they are not discipline-dependent and any discipline could conceivably draw benefits from using Patterns to capture problem solutions in their discipline or even adapt Pattern solutions from other disciplines, as problems are not always exclusive to only one field or discipline.

ALLPATT invites contributions about pattern approaches (including mining, writing, iteration, validation) within or across various disciplines, as well as knowledge transfer or solution capturing approaches, which could further inform Patterns or be viable alternatives to Patterns.

While ALLPATT seeks to extend Patterns beyond computing and software engineering, contributions from these fields are, of course, also welcome, especially (but not exclusively) regarding Pattern frameworks, collections, dissemination, and validation approaches.

Topics include, but not limited to:

- Basics on Patterns
- Pattern frameworks, models, and languages
- Pattern collections and dissemination (including database approaches)
- Pattern mining, iteration, and validation
- Knowledge transfer methods (within and across disciplines; both Pattern and not Pattern based ones)
- Solution capturing methods (both Pattern and not Pattern based ones)
- Domain-oriented Patterns
- Pattern reuse

NOTE: Previous contributions to ALLPATT concerned APPATT—2017

- Using Patterns to document academic study setup design solutions
- Proposing Patterns as the law-equivalent for the Humanities
- Choosing the appropriate deployment model for cloud-based applications via patterns
