June 26, 2022 to June 30, 2022 - Porto, Portugal

An increasing number of services are provided digitally to the citizens by public authorities and by public organizations. This includes a variety of services, from information from authorities to applications aiming at increasing quality of life.

However, it is important that these services are provided in an inclusive way and that they increase the users' control over their own situation, both with respect to the goal and the content of the service and with respect to the use of the technology.

Topics include, but not limited to

- Accessibility to information;
- Cognitive disabilities;
- Older adults and the use of technology;
- Welfare technology;
- Digitalization;
- Technology implementation.
