Senior Specialist, Strategic Initiatives, Canada Health Infoway

Katie Bryski is Senior Specialist, Strategic Initiatives at Canada Health Infoway (Infoway). Since joining Infoway in 2019, she has had the pleasure of working with teams across the organization, immersing herself in projects involving interoperability, virtual care, health equity, patient digital health literacy and more.

Katie currently supports the co-chairs of the Clinical and Consumer Engagement Work Stream in the Global Digital Health Partnership. She also manages, hosts and produces Infoway's Digital Health InfoCast: a biweekly podcast discussing all things digital health.

An interdisciplinarian at heart, Katie previously enjoyed a long career in museum education. While the subject matter domains may be different, she deeply values that experience as she uses her communication and engagement skills to tell the stories of digital health.
