SCSN: Smart City Sensor Networks

Chair and Coordinator

Jiannan Zhai, Ph.D., Research Assistant Professor, Florida Atlantic University, USA jzhai@fau.edu along with

SENSORCOMM 2018, The Twelfth International Conference on Sensor Technologies and Applications September 16, 2018 to September 20, 2018 - Venice, Italy http://www.iaria.org/conferences2018/SENSORCOMM18.html

Driven by IoT (Internet of Think) technologies, the development of Smart Cities plays a key role in changing our daily lives, including communication, transportation, health, energy, and much more. The growing number of Smart Cities all over the world brings us challenges and exciting research questions.

The Smart City Sensor Network Track (SCSN) will provide a dynamic and collaborative discussion on Smart City topics and bring together researchers, scientists, industry partners and city managers to share and exchange their research and advances related to Smart City development. The SCSN aims to provide state-of-art technologies and promote collaborations in the Smart City research areas.

Authors are invited to submit complete unpublished papers, which are not under review in any other conference or journal in the following, but not limited to:

- Smart homes and buildings;
- Health and emergency management;
- Smart environment and green computing;
- City management and control systems;
- Intelligent and data analytics;
- Smart transportation and traffic systems;
- Smart manufacturing and logistics;
- Vehicle-to-vehicle and vehicle-to-infrastructure communication;
- Public WiFi;
- City-wide communication infrastructure;
- Indoor localization;
- Energy, water and waste management;
- Smart grids;
- Energy monitoring and management;
- Smart city modeling and simulation;
- Safety, security, privacy for smart cities;
- Sensing citizen mobility;
- Behavioral change studies; smart city demos, tools, devices, experiments.
