

Dr. Lorena Parra

Lorena Parra (lorena.parra@upm.es): She was born in Oliva, Valencia (Spain), on February 22, 1989. She received her Bachelor's degree in Environmental Sciences in 2012. She completed her Master's Degree in Environmental Assessment and Monitoring of Marine and Coastal Ecosystems in 2013. She received his PhD in Science and Technology of Animal Production in 2018. She worked as a postdoctoral researcher at Universitat Politècnica de València, focusing her research on precision agriculture until 2024. Since September 2024, she has been an assistant professor at the Universidad Politécnica de Madrid. She is the author/coauthor of more than 72 publications (including articles in international magazines and book chapters) and 90 papers in congresses. She has participated in more than 100 conferences as a member of the technical committee or organising committee. She has been the editor of proceedings, keynote speaker, panellist and chair in various congresses. She is guest editor of several Special Issues of indexed journals. She has participated in various scientific dissemination days, such as talks at education centres and innovation and entrepreneurship days. Furthermore, she has participated in various national and international research projects.